Scholarship Guide Updated November 7, 2022

A Program for Every Student

We are excited to provide you with this guide filled with information about the many donor-sponsored and institutional scholarship opportunities that are available to Webster University students.

Webster's mission of meeting unmet needs has not changed since its founding in 1915. As we honor our past, we remain focused on our future. This focus includes growing the number of scholarships available to students so even more students may gain a quality education and change the world. These scholarships are essential to providing access and success for students.

The Gift of Education

We are proud that Webster's diverse community and innovative educational programs uphold the pioneering values and spirit of our founders, the Sisters of Loretto. This means providing access to students whose talents and dedication are greater than their economic resources. Typically, 96 percent of Webster's undergraduate students receive financial aid in the form of scholarship assistance and loans.

In the following pages of this guide are scholarship opportunities that support a variety of programs at Webster.

Endowed Scholarships and Webster Society and other Annual Scholarships are made possible by gifts from supporters. The generosity of these supporters provides for new opportunities, both in the number of scholarships available to students, as well as the variety of scholarship opportunities. This includes scholarships with a vital focus on global citizenship, championing careers in the STEM fields, and focused on encouraging Webster's talented student artists.

Each of these endowed and annual scholarships from supporters is unique, not only in its eligibility but in its creation. Supporters have made these gifts of education in memory of loved ones, in tribute to their education from Webster as alumni, to share in their passion of global citizenship by studying abroad, or to assist future generations to excel in a particular career field important to them.

Webster University has also established many institutional scholarships to support our students. These scholarships were created to identify and fill areas of need not addressed by donor-funded scholarships. They are critical to providing opportunity and financial security to students as they pursue an undergraduate or graduate degree.

Access and Success

Scholarships at Webster University are key to access and success for Webster students. We hope this scholarship guide serves as a way for students to learn about financial options, made possible by supporters who believe in the gift of education. We encourage students to contact the Webster Office of Financial Aid to learn more about scholarship opportunities and how to apply (contact information can be found at the end of this guide).

Endowed Scholarships

Endowed scholarships, which exist in perpetuity, create a legacy that lasts from one generation to the next because the principal remains intact while only a portion of the earnings is used to provide financial aid. Endowed scholarships may be named for the supporter or for someone whom a supporter wishes to memorialize, honor or celebrate. Currently, a minimum contribution of $25,000 is required to establish an endowed scholarship at Webster University. The University's endowment expenditure rate is established by its Board of Trustees. Currently, it is the average of the preceding 12 quarters as of the preceding December 31, multiplied by 4.5 percent, less administration fees.

University-wide Scholarships

"I am grateful for people like my scholarship donors, who see as much value in education as I do. As a future art educator in the Missouri school districts, I will keep in mind the kindness others have shown me, and use it to empower future generations."

abroad at other Webster campuses for up to one year

Mr. Charles E. Beech, affectionately known as "Charlie", initially joined what was then Webster College in St. Louis in 1974 as Assistant Director of Admissions. In 1977 Webster appointed him as Acting Director of Admissions & Financial Aid. In 1983, Charlie returned to the renamed Webster University in St. Louis as the Director of Admissions following an absence of five years. During the seven-year period until 1990, Charlie created the Study Abroad Office and initiated an Asian recruitment plan with recruitment trips to Japan and Hong Kong. He also served as Chair of both the Admissions Committee and the Scholarship Awards Committee.

By the early 1990's, Charlie's professional life was devoted to Webster's international agenda. He was asked to implement a new International Office of Special Study Opportunities that included both international recruitment and admissions plus study abroad. Furthermore, Charlie was invited to join the Committee for Europe, the Middle East and Africa (CEMA) sponsored by the Council of International Schools (CIS). In this volunteer role, Charlie led or assisted the tour leader of CIS/CEMA Recruitment Tours to the Middle East, Western Europe, Scandinavia, Eastern Europe, and Russia. Simultaneously Charlie's other focus was the refinement and enhancement of Webster's outreach strategy for Asia. In addition, Charlie had responsibility for the coordination and oversight of Webster's worldwide recruitment efforts aimed at international students.

By 2000 the four international campuses in Europe were in need of additional leadership and integration related to their recruitment and admissions efforts. This need resulted in Charlie being offered and accepting an enhanced role that was based at the Geneva campus. Here he served as Director of Admissions, Retention and Enrollment Management. A significant portion of his new portfolio was coordination of Webster's worldwide recruitment efforts. This led to his appointment as Deputy Director for Geneva operations including admissions, student services and housing. Six months prior to his retirement Charlie was appointed Interim Director of Webster University Geneva.

When evaluated by the numbers, Charlie's lifetime career in higher education administration includes 47 years with ever-increasing levels of responsibility. Happily, 36 of those years were spent working on behalf of Webster College/University with a special focus on Webster's international programs. Through his commitment and dedication to Webster, Charlie has demonstrated his genuine belief in the importance of higher education in an international setting across cultures. This belief has led him to support Webster University Geneva's Scholarship Program since 2000.

Further, Charlie has built up a strong network of friends and supporters of not only the students, alumni, faculty, and administrative staff on the University campus in the Geneva, but in his role as Associate Vice President International Enrollment across Webster University's worldwide campuses network and beyond, including the international school guidance community, professional colleagues in international enrollment management, parents, and friends.

Charlie Beech's legacy at Webster will be celebrated and reinforced with this endowed scholarship bearing his name. Students who benefit from this endowed scholarship shall be proud recipients of the Charles E. Beech Leadership Scholarship Endowed Fund.

In honor of our 50th honor class reunion in 2014 and in memory of those classmates who died before our 50th Reunion, and in celebration of Webster's Centennial year in 2015, the Class of 1964 has established The Class of 1964 Endowed Scholarship Fund. This fund also exists to celebrate and honor the memory and values of the Sisters of Loretto who taught us at Webster College from the fall of 1960 through the spring of 1964.

This fund was established to provide future first-generation college students the opportunity to benefit from the same spirit and caliber of education at Webster that we so appreciated, many of us first generation college students ourselves.

As a class containing members who have served our communities through our successes in the non-profit sector, educational leadership, film and theatre, as well as the first class of Webster to graduate male students, we are committed to support future first generation college students' ability to enjoy the same advantageous educational opportunities as we and forge new ground in the world that awaits them.

As Alumni of Webster University, we establish this endowed scholarship to pay forward the rewards of our excellent Webster education. The years of the sixties were exciting, changing times at Webster College. We became fully coeducational, started expansion of the campus to Kansas City, and the Sisters of Loretto transferred ownership of the school to a lay board of directors operating Webster as a private, nonprofit, non-denominational university. We were on the ground floor to experience the energy of the growth of Webster and, as alums, we have watched our alma mater continue on its path of expansion and excellence.

In these times of the sixties, we were encouraged to believe that anything is possible to achieve, and we took that confidence into our world as we established our own paths. We seek to support future Webster University students, knowing that our university will recognize their individualities and provide them with the confidence to achieve their dreams.

Thank you, Webster University. We are proud Webster alums and wish the recipients of our scholarship the best of success.

Ellen Maland '70 - "I offer this scholarship fund in honor of the memory of my youngest brother, Don Maland, who was killed in a terrorist attack at the Rome airport in 1985, an attack staged by a radical Palestinian organization called Abu Nidal. Don was a young man, just turned 30, who had earned a degree in business and was employed by Ford Aerospace in a project laying fiber optic cable in Egypt. He had lived for several years in Cairo, where he had fallen in love with an Egyptian co-worker and was in the process of learning Arabic and converting to Islam in order to secure permission from the woman's family to marry her."

"All three of my brothers met in Rome to spend the Christmas of 1985 together and, two days later, Don and my older brother went to the Rome airport to arrange their further travel. They were standing in line at a counter next to the El Al counter when gunmen from Abu Nidal opened fire in attacks that were carried out simultaneously at the Rome and Vienna airports. Both of my brothers were shot, Don in the head and my other brother in the leg. Don underwent surgery but died that night."

"There are many ironies in this story, as there are in any tragedy. My brothers weren't 'supposed to' be at the airport that day; their tickets were for the following day, but they were trying to change their flights. Don was very sympathetic to the plight of the Palestinians and probably would have been an advocate for their point of view had he lived. But none of this matters when it comes to terrorist acts, as we well know."

"As I have tried to come to terms with this loss over the years, I have found my attention drawn to reading and thinking about the seemingly insoluble problems of the Palestinian-Israeli conflict, as well as the many other very complex struggles going on in this part of the world, especially in more recent years. I have no great insights into these problems, but nonetheless feel that the search must go on for peaceful solutions to conflicts. It is because of this -- and my wish to keep my brother's memory alive -- that I've chosen to support students who have an interest in exploring these issues."

Other	Demonstrated financial need

The Peggy Sansone Family Foundation created this endowed scholarship fund in honor of President Julian Z. Schuster to recognize his leadership that expands the opportunities for Webster students' success. Many members of the Sansone family have completed degrees at Webster University and have gone on to thrive in their lives and careers. They understand the value of a Webster degree. The family's preference for recipients of this scholarship will be students with the ambition to succeed as university students but whose talent exceeds their financial capacity. This scholarship is intended to overcome financial challenges for such students and to enable their enrollment.

Scholarship Requisites
Academic	3.0 GPA, Geneva, Undergraduate,Full-time
Demographic	--
Other	--

Dr. Robert Spencer, Director Geneva Campus, Director General, Europe joined Webster University in St. Louis in January 1973. During his 40-year career with Webster, he exemplified Webster's style of leadership, empowering students, faculty, staff, alumni and friends to go beyond their very best in their learning, teaching and supporting. His 'open door' policy, engaging conversation, and genuine belief in the importance of higher education in an international setting across cultures has drawn students to him and contributed to his overall popularity in the Webster community.

Since his appointment as Director Geneva Campus and Director General Europe in 1995, he has facilitated expansion into Europe and Africa and administered the development and expansion of the Geneva campus, providing more facilities and opportunities for students. He has built up a strong network of friends and supporters of the University in the Geneva community through active involvement in a number of important social, educational, diplomatic and business organizations. This has ultimately led to the Geneva campus becoming finally recognized as an established Geneva institution which has positively affected not only enrollments but also campus life.

Dr. Spencer's legacy at Webster will be celebrated and reinforced with this endowed scholarship bearing his name. Students who benefit from this endowed scholarship shall be proud recipients of the Dr. Robert A. Spencer Endowed Scholarship funds for years to come.

Janice Waner Wilson was born in 1924 in Los Angeles, CA and developed her independence early on, spending entire summers at the G.S.A. camp in Big Bear, CA and as the first female to have a newspaper delivery route in LA. She studied at the University of Southern California, but the beginning of World War II and youthful wanderlust led to her move to Chicago, IL, to 'experience the changing seasons.' At the end of the war, she met and married Max C. Wilson U.S.N. of Kansas City, MO. Together Max and Janice had two children: Thomas Wilson (wife Betty) and Marilyn Richards (husband Bill). Max began a long career with the Kansas City, MO Fire Department and Janice worked first in various banks then as an elementary school secretary in the Kansas City, MO School district for seven years, when encouraged by the principal, she returned to college, obtaining her AA at Metro Jr. College in 1967 and a BA in Education at UMKC in 1969. She then began a 17 year career at Katherine Carpenter Elementary as a librarian and 'chief tooth puller' retiring in 1986. She completed her MA in Education at Webster University and was a Phi Kappa Phi and a member of the American Association of Women. Janice loved spending time at the family's Lake of the Ozarks cabin and traveling worldwide.

Academic	3.0 GPA,Freshman or transfer
Demographic	--
Other	--

Mary Sue McKillin Ealum '55 established this scholarship because "I am very grateful for the scholarship Webster College gave me in 1951 when I graduated from high school. My major in Mathematics and degree from Webster in 1955 gave me the background and opportunity to obtain a job with the U.S. Department of Defense. Five years later my employer sent me to Yale University graduate school for one year to study Astronomy. This additional study made it possible for me to obtain my Master's degree from Yale and also to be promoted to an excellent job. I feel that my whole future was affected by Webster because it is quite likely none of this would have happened without the scholarship they gave me many years ago. I hope that this scholarship will give some student at Webster University the same sort of opportunities to succeed in their work and in life."

It is the fond hope of Genevieve P. O'Hara to honor the O'Hara Family by gifting a scholarship to a student who majors in either political science or accounting. My sister, Jane O'Hara Carter, was a distinguished alumna of the Class of 1948. Her daughter, Mary Ann Carter, has chosen a career in the political arena, and while her mother was a gifted poet, would be delighted with the designated scholarship. I would also like to honor my niece, Mary O'Hara Burkhardt, and her husband, David Burkhardt, Webster class of 1996, a graduate in accounting. My own connection to Webster is through the Sisters of Loretto, those wonderful women who are surely the salt of the earth. May the recipients of this scholarship savor the wisdom that they and Webster have so long imparted.

Scholarship Requisites

Academic	Undergraduate,Demonstrated interests in the areas of leadership, diversity and inclusion
Demographic	Worked in or have demonstrated interest in women's issues
Other	Demonstrated financial need

This endowed scholarship is established by Drs. Elizabeth (Beth) and Paul Stroble in memory of Beth's parents, Robert E. and D. Jean Powell. Bob Powell (1924-1995) was born in Tennessee, and Jean McNabb Powell (1927-2013) in Texas. They met as pen pals during World War II, after which they married and moved first to Wyoming and then to the Chicago area for post-war employment. Bob drilled artesian wells before going into business as an independent home renovation contractor. Jean returned to work in the banking industry when Beth and her brother Pat were both in school. She advanced in the bank, ending her career as President and Director of the Heritage 1st National Bank of Lockport, Illinois. Their lives evidenced a willingness to take risks, work hard, and give generously to their family, church, and community. Not college graduates themselves, Bob and Jean championed educational opportunities for others, advocated for the underrepresented, and took pride in Beth's educational and career accomplishments.

Sam and Marilyn Fox Endowed Scholarship Fund

Established by Sam and Marilyn Fox

Scholarship Requisites
Academic	Undergraduate
Demographic	--
Other	Demonstrated financial need

Marilyn has dedicated years in service to Webster University. She served as a Trustee from 1990 through 1999, again from 2000 through 2010, and for a third term from 2012 through 2019. Marilyn also served on the Webster Society board of directors, acting as board president from 2004 through 2005. In addition to their generous annual scholarship support, Sam and Marilyn made a significant leadership campaign gift to support those scholarships in perpetuity by establishing this fund. Webster is not the only institution to benefit from Marilyn's leadership and generosity. Her involvements include serving on the boards of the Jewish Community Center, Jewish Federation, Missouri Botanical Garden, Missouri Historical Society, St. Louis Variety-the Children's Charity, and Women of Achievement, a history-making term as the first woman president of the Jewish Community Center (JCC) where she also served as chair of the JCC's capital campaign. She has also worked with the United Way, Girl Scouts, National Council of Community and Justice, Hillel, and the Old Newsboys Children's Charity.

The Arthur M. Sandler Endowed Scholarship Fund was established by his spouse, Vicki Woods, and the Sandler and Woods families to perpetuate the memory of Professor Sandler and promote the study of Human Rights at Webster University. Professor Sandler was a member of the Philosophy Department from 1970 until his death in 2008. Art served at various times as President of the Faculty, Chair of the College of Arts & Sciences, Chair of the Department of Philosophy, and Chair of the Department of Interdisciplinary Studies. He is remembered as a patient, kind, tireless, warm, and funny educator and activist for human rights - and, he would want you to know, a devoted fan of the New York Knickerbockers basketball team.

Art's commitment to human rights activism and education reflected both his deep respect and compassion other people and his family's Jewish roots in Eastern Europe. In the 1980s, he immersed himself in working for human rights in Central America, especially in Guatemala, and this work inspired him to create Webster's highly successful human rights curriculum, including the first undergraduate major in Human Rights in the United States.

Art believed not only in studying but "doing" human rights. This fund honors his desire to support students willing to combine serious study with concrete action to build a more just global society. Art would not insist that beneficiaries root for the Knicks, but he would advise those who work in what can be a heartbreaking field to keep their sanity by enjoying sports, music, movies or whatever else brings some diversion in a world in need of so much healing.

Demographic	--
Other	--

The Harry J. Cargas Endowed Scholarship Fund was established by his wife Millie and the Cargas family to perpetuate the memory of Professor Emeritus Cargas and promote the study of Human Rights at Webster University. Professor Cargas was a member of the English Department from 1970 until his death in 1998. He was a scholar and an athlete; a devout Catholic who was respected in the Jewish community for his work on the Holocaust; a grizzly guy with a heart of putty; a family man who recognized his connections to his community and to his God. He was a distinctive and distinguished presence on the St. Louis campus.

Harry was the author of more than 2,500 articles and 32 books, including Conversations with Elie Wiesel, Religious Experience and Process Theology, and Daniel Berrigan and Contemporary Protest Poetry. He counted Nobel Prize winner Elie Wiesel among his friends. Harry's interests ranged widely. At Webster he taught courses on the novels of Kurt Vonnegut (also a personal friend), Native American literature, Latin American literature, protest literature, and many more eclectic subjects. In addition to teaching in the English Department and serving as its chair, Harry taught history and religion courses, led the Art Department for a time, and served as athletic director in the late 1980s.

He was well known to St. Louisans for his 25 years of radio broadcasts on KWMU radio. He was also an internationally recognized public speaker, having lectured in eight foreign countries and at more than 40 U.S. colleges and universities. He received numerous awards including the Human Rights Award from the United Nations Association, the Eternal Flame Award from the Anne Frank Institute, and the Tree of Life from the National Jewish Fund. In 1980, Harry was appointed by President Carter to be one of the original members of the U.S. Holocaust Memorial Council, which laid the groundwork for the Holocaust Memorial Museum in Washington, D.C. Other appointments included the executive council of the U.S. Holocaust council, vice-president of the Annual Scholars' Conference on the Holocaust, and the honor of being the only Catholic ever appointed to the International Advisory Committee of Yad Vashem, Israel's holocaust memorial.

The Gleichs established this fund because "It has long been a goal of ours to help expand the horizons of others through education. We have been fortunate to have had many interesting and challenging experiences which are a direct result of the outstanding education we received in St. Louis. By giving back to Webster University, we are expressing our appreciation to the University for laying the ground work for our future. It is not an exaggeration to say that without Marianne's foundation in French, our paths would likely have been entirely different. Doors opened for both of us by way of language capabilities nurtured by Webster's outstanding foreign language staff and by way of Peter's superb business background provided by another university in St. Louis. We are pleased to provide the endowed scholarship in French Language Studies with the hope that it will aid others in fulfilling their dreams. "

Dr. Michael J. Salevouris, professor of European History at Webster University, has been an exemplary figure of academic excellence and dedication to his students for over forty years. Well known for his depth of knowledge, engaging lectures, and wry sense of humor, his students remember their days at Webster with great fondness due to his caring and exacting approach to their education and his concern for and interest in them as people. Eschewing the easy approach to pedagogical assessment, Dr. Salevouris frequently assigned papers of significant depth and dutifully graded each and every one with great care. Through his publications and reputation in historical methodology, Michael also earned wide recognition and respect in his field.

Having served on numerous faculty committees over the years as well as having chaired the department on more than one occasion, Michael exemplifies the Webster tradition of faculty-wide participation in the life of the institution.

Dr. Salevouris' legacy at Webster will be celebrated and reinforced with this endowed scholarship bearing his name. Students in the School of Arts and Sciences who display scholarly seriousness in historical inquiry shall be the proud recipients of the Salevouris Scholarship funds for years to come.

"All that stood between me and my degree was a lack of confidence. But when my youngest child started college, I did too. My time at Webster was transforming. The Independent Learning Experience program showed me I had real strengths and had developed the tools I needed to succeed at a level higher than anything I had previously imagined. In the Literature and Language program my professors introduced me to a world of stimulating thought, challenging ideas and to heady conversations I still cherish. In the Creative Writing program, I was encouraged to write honestly, not to hold back but to write to the heart of the matter. I learned more than technique; I learned who I was and what I was capable of. Having recently completed my MFA in Creative Writing at UM-Saint Louis (barely ahead of social security), I know it's never too late to grow in knowledge and confidence. I had the financial resources to afford Webster University-if I hadn't, it might have presented an overwhelming obstacle to my education. I want this scholarship to provide other aspiring writers-of any age-the opportunity I had to achieve my dreams. "

The Reta Madsen Endowed Scholarship Fund for English is created through the vision of family, alumni, faculty, staff and friends and was established in Dr. Madsen's honor at the request of faculty members in the English Department. This honor was requested because of her lasting impact upon the lives of hundreds of students, her creation of the English department as it now exists, and her contribution to the fabric of the whole University during her thirty-year tenure at Webster. Dr. Madsen is known and remembered for the rigor and brilliance of her teaching and her fierce advocacy on behalf of her students. In her teaching, advising, and community service, Dr. Madsen enacted a belief that the truth we tell each other-through literature and in person-is a means to a conscious and productive life. It is profoundly appropriate that the scholarship in her name will provide practical means for sound intellectual growth and the creative pursuit of truth. The scholarship supports full-time undergraduate English Majors with sophomore status and above in the College of Humanities and Social Sciences.

Will and Hellen Carpenter "Late Bloomer" Endowed Scholarship

Scholarship Requisites

Academic	Most improved GPA soph from fresh yr, Pursuing a science degree, with a preference for biology,Undergraduate,Entering junior year,Full-time
Demographic	U.S. Citizen
Other	Military students, veterans or children of veterans

When Freshmen arrive at Webster University to begin the great adventure of college life, there are several potential pitfalls that can cause major damage to the progress of the new student. One is having attended a high school that did not adequately prepare that person for the standards of Webster. Another potential obstacle is the very bright student who coasted through high school without having to exert much effort. Some are trapped by the inability to say "no". "No, I can't go out tonight; I have to study. No, I must finish this paper this weekend," etc.

For any one of many reasons, the first year can be a disaster. Though the student learns what is required for success by the second semester, the opportunity to demonstrate that is difficult. There is little chance to compete for scholarships and fellowships.

For this reason, we call our scholarship the "Late Bloomers" Scholarship, with the key criterion being that person who made the greatest improvement the sophomore year as compared to the freshman year. Will was a late bloomer at least three times during his academic career. The first was illness; the second was military service, and the third was changing his field of study. We hope this scholarship will help those who, for any reason, are late bloomers.

The beloved professor and cultural anthropologist joined Webster University in 1967 in the middle of the civil rights movement in the United States. She covered everything from race and gender relations to oral culture, to American frontier settlement and Native Americans. Dr. Kohl received several awards and recognitions throughout her long tenure at Webster. She helped guide and manage countless programs as a colleague and committee member, including the Women's Studies program, the Faculty Speaker's Committee, and the internship program for Webster students at the Missouri Historical Society. In 1986, she was awarded Faculty Development Leave by Webster to spend a year as scholar-in-residence for Neshoba County, Mississippi, as part of the Mississippi Committee for the Humanities. There she studied relations among blacks, whites, and Choctaws - and encouraged them to learn their shared histories as part of a project called, "Diverse Origins, Common History." Dr. Kohl was often referred to as a trailblazer and a profound role model for a new generation of student. She not only believed in feminism and the women's movement, but she lived it. Her impact on Webster's culture and community continues to influence and inspire.

This endowed scholarship is established by Drs. Elizabeth and Paul Stroble in memory of Paul's parents, who spent most of their lives in the Vandalia, IL, area near St. Louis. Paul Sr. (1912-1999) was born near Vandalia, and Mildred (1919-2012) was born near Brownstown, IL. They both descended from early settlers of the Vandalia area. Paul served in World War II in the 921st Field Artillery Battalion, the 96th Infantry Division, U.S. Army. He worked as a truck driver for 40 years and as a school bus driver after retirement. Mildred was a schoolteacher while Paul served overseas, and later she worked in retail until the birth of their only child. She also worked as a tour guide at the Vandalia Statehouse State Historic Site. Both Paul and Mildred took great interest in Vandalia's history as the second capital of Illinois, where both Abraham Lincoln and Stephen Douglas launched their political careers. Not college graduates themselves, they encouraged and supported their son, Paul, as he pursued his baccalaureate and graduate education.

Our days at Webster University were a special time in our lives. During the 1970s at Webster, we were a group of students who began to recognize the value of community, and the importance of building community. At that time the Webster Groves campus was the only campus, the student body was small, and we had the opportunity to get to know each other well. We saw community building and engagement as a way to get things done and to meet challenges locally and globally. Many of us took an awareness of the power of community into our careers. It informed our approach to shaping the workplaces we found ourselves in, or even the organizations we created from the ground up. We have been enriched and strengthened personally and professionally by friendships formed at Webster in the 1970s that have endured for decades.

The 1970's Era Alumni group (classes of 1970-1977) has established this scholarship to recognize and support future Webster students who have shown initiative, creativity and leadership in community building and engagement. We hope by example, and through this scholarship, to inspire and support like-minded students in the coming years. The Webster 1970's Era Endowed Scholarship is intended to provide annual support to undergraduate students on the Webster Groves campus who have a passion for community building and who see themselves as change agents who think about new ways to solve problems. Through this scholarship it is hoped that recipients will not only realize that their financial need is recognized, but that the intelligence, skills and vision they are bringing to Webster are valued and encouraged.

Martha Armes '59 - "I am establishing this scholarship as a tribute to my sister, Winifred Armes (July 31, 1920 - October 24, 2001), a high school graduate who had no possibility of going to college in 1937 when she graduated from high school. Instead, she went to a business school to learn shorthand and typing to have a skill appropriate for a woman in the workplace. She fell into a job at Fort Knox, Kentucky several years before World War II where she rose quickly as a civil servant to become the secretary to the General in charge of the expansive hospital. She retired in the 1980s, still active with the family and friends. Winnie was an avid reader of novels, histories and poetry. She carried a little notebook in which to write interesting quotes or lines of poetry. In her own way, she studied the broad interests of a liberal arts major. She was a kind, generous, faithful and beautiful sister and I hope her scholarship can fall to someone each year who will discover the rewards of the arts, literature, sciences and critical thinking."

Demographic	--
Other	--

Anna Barbara's association with Webster University began in the early 1950s when, as a Sister of Loretto, she enrolled in Saturday and summer classes. In 1957 she received her Bachelor of Arts degree in Elementary Education. Anna Barbara continued her studies at Loyola University of Chicago where she received her Masters of Education in 1961. Infused through two years' further study at Brussels' famed Lumen Vitae, she returned to Webster in 1963 as a full-time instructor in the Religion Department, where she taught for nine years. When the Master of Arts in Teaching (MAT) was announced, Anna Barbara was asked to direct the program, which she did for two years. Working with famed Syracuse University mathematician Robert Davis and Webster President Jacqueline Grennan Wexler, Anna Barbara helped bring the famed "Madison Project." to St. Louis. Equally well-known M.I.T. scientist Bill Walton soon joined her in creating the MAT in Science. Additional luminaries including Jerome Bruner, Phillip Morrison and Jerrold Zacharias further shaped the MAT. Anna Barbara also taught at the College School, which was then a part of the University's Education Department. She joined the Mathematics and Computer Science Department in 1979, where she served as chair from 1985 to 1999. Anna Barbara retired in 2010.

Many years ago Anna Barbara and Ed Sakurai initiated the St. Peter and Paul service program, serving dinner to the needy one night a month; a Webster University project that continues today under the leadership of Mary Ann Drake. In 2001, Anna Barbara received the William T. Kemper Award for Excellence in Teaching.

Colleagues say Anna Barbara was a one-of-a-kind role model for Webster faculty, staff and students. Her happiness was infectious. They say she represented the very best of Webster's ideals and mission and that caring for others was most important to her, both in and out of the classroom. Students knew she loved to help them learn and they responded with affection.

It has long been a goal of ours to help expand the horizons of others through education. We have been fortunate to have had many interesting and challenging experiences which are a direct result of the outstanding education we received in St. Louis. By giving back to Webster University, we are expressing our appreciation to the University for laying the groundwork for our future. It is not an exaggeration to say that without Marianne's foundation in French, our paths would have likely been entirely different. Doors opened for both of us by way of language capabilities nurtured by Webster's outstanding foreign language staff and by way of Peter's superb business background provided by another university in St. Louis. We are pleased to provide the Marianne E. Gleich '66 & Peter A. Gleich Endowed Scholarship for International Business with the hope that it will aid others in fulfilling their dreams and provide them with life changing opportunities.

Anthony '94 established this scholarship because "My mother, Marianne Garavaglia, was unable to attend college because of financial reasons. When we were growing up, she consistently told us that education was the key to everything. People could take your house, your cars, your money but nobody could ever take your education. I will never forget her commitment to obtaining a stellar education and the value she placed on doing so. When I was looking into universities, she told me that I should seriously consider Webster University because of the various programs available, the intimacy of the educational experience, and the diversity of the University. She was so proud that I was able to attend Webster and I know she would support me assisting another prospective student in attending Webster. While she did not live to see me graduate, I feel that this endowment will allow her commitment to education and to Webster to live on in her honor."

Jerry Maguire Johnson relished her educational and extracurricular life while attending Webster College. She was president of the graduating class of 1948 and continued her commitment to service as an alumna at Webster, as well as to her family, parish and community. She and her husband Lew delighted in hosting many a class reunion. Being a math and French major who became a teacher, Jerry may have surprised some by her love of musical theater. She was in her element whenever she attended Broadway plays, the Muny, Stages St. Louis and any of her grandchildren's performances. Who knew she would take up tap dancing again at the age of 66!

Webster nurtured Jerry's commitment to higher education. Affording a deserving Webster University student the opportunity to fulfill a degree in mathematics or musical theater performance will continue her legacy of love for Webster University. - The Lewis E. Johnson Family period, and observed its transformation from its early growing pains to a respected orchestra, and finally to its achieving an incredibly high level of excellence and artistry. It has provided training for a large number of advanced student musicians who have joined the ranks of professional orchestras and other music institutions nationwide, and who were worthy of playing along side some of the most gifted professional players in St. Louis.

Allen built a strong spirit of community and a splendid orchestra noted for its dedication and high artistic standards. Accompanying him in his work in administrative, public relations, and audience-building tasks was his wife and muse, Debbie Larson, where together they became a "power" couple inspiring everyone connected with the orchestra. Allen's legacy must be reinforced by investing in the future of the orchestra, and it seemed to many of us who love the orchestra and the Larsons, that an endowed scholarship for talented student instrumentalists over time would help to guarantee the continued growth and work of the next generation and success of the orchestra.

I hope that all the friends of the Webster University Symphony Orchestra, friends of the Larsons, and future Larson Scholars will actively support the new leadership of the orchestra and contribute generously to the endowment fund now established." - Carole Gaspar

I joined the faculty of the Department of Music at Webster University in 1973 and during my first year there the department held a search for a new head of vocal studies. I recommended the superb singer and vocal pedagogue/historian, Carole Gaspar, after her outstanding performances as guest soloist with the Northland Symphony Orchestra of Kansas City which I conducted before coming to Webster. Her many performances with the Symphony Orchestra during my tenure there were heightened by her professional approach to quality preparation and her congenial work ethic.

Upon her being hired at Webster in 1974 I saw her develop a marvelous voice program which has turned out numerous excellent young singers who have become teachers, performers and choral ensemble members throughout the United States. Indeed, some of her students have reached truly incredible heights with positions in major opera companies including The Metropolitan Opera of New York. Not many vocal programs can boast of this special achievement.

The choral program and the opera studio program at Webster have flourished because of Carole's high standards for both her students and for the voice teachers under her leadership. Carole's strict standards are well known among the ranks of Webster voice majors both past and present since over the years certain students were only allowed to graduate from Webster once they achieved senior level work.

It is fitting and right that Carole Godwin Gaspar be remembered at Webster University by the establishment of this music scholarship in her name for gifted young vocal students.- Allen Carol Larson

"I am humbled to be a recipient of The Buder Foundation Scholarship. Since I was a kid, I dreamed of not only becoming a film composer but attending Webster University to study the art of composition and to achieve that dream. Now, with your generous contribution, my family and I are able to afford my studying at Webster and for that I am grateful. I hope to set a good example not only as a student at Webster, but as an artist, which without you, I may not have had any hope of being. "

Mary Ellen Smith Memorial Scholarship in Music

*Established by Kathryn Smith Bowers

Scholarship Requisites
Academic	3.0 GPA, Degree in music; see agreement for full details,Full-time
Demographic	--
Other	Demonstrated financial need

Mary Ellen Smith was a talented singer, pianist, and organist. Growing up in Oklahoma City, she benefited from opportunities to work with several exceptional music teachers who challenged her, for example, to sing a leading role in Hansel and Gretel while still in high school. Despite the fact that her father died while she was in high school, and her mother while she was attending Oklahoma City University, she was able to complete her bachelor's degree in voice at the University of Oklahoma and a graduate certificate in singing at Juilliard.

While studying at Juilliard, Mary Ellen returned to Oklahoma City to perform the soprano solo in Brahms' A German Requiem on December 7, 1942, to mark the one-year anniversary of the bombing of Pearl Harbor. This performance of the Oklahoma City Symphony, conducted by Lara Hoggard, was broadcast on radio throughout the state of Oklahoma.

Mary Ellen also performed in the 1943 revival of Rudolf Friml's The Vagabond King on Broadway.

Marriage and family in small town Kansas curtailed a promising musical career. Although only her oldest child, Kathryn Smith Bowers, a Webster University professor emerita, pursued a career in music, Mrs. Smith was happy to see all three of her children excel musically.

This scholarship is also intended to honor the admirable teaching careers of long-time Webster professors Carole Gaspar (voice), Daniel Schene (piano), and William Partridge (organ).

Neal Richardson Memorial Endowed Sargent Conservatory Scholarship Fund

Established by Ethan Edwards and Doris Richardson

Scholarship Requisites
Academic	3.0 GPA, Musical Theatre
Demographic	--
Other	--

Hugh O'Neal "Neal" Richardson found his greatest pleasure in developing musical talent in young performers. A native of Alabama, his musical skills were first developed through classical piano and music theory studies which he continued throughout his life, but his passion for teaching found fulfillment in music direction in musical theater and coaching singers pursuing careers in that field. After extensive graduate work at Baylor University and the University of Cincinnati's College Conservatory of Music, Neal moved to St. Louis, finding employment as an accompanist for Webster Conservatory musical theater classes. His gifts naturally propelled him to ever greater responsibilities including Music Director for the department, instructor for core courses, and private coaching. His monograph "Excavating the Song" and the musical resources he shared through his website were valued by students long after they had graduated from Webster University.

He loved the challenge of preparing students for the annual musical productions, inspiring unforgettable stage performances. His reinventing of the orchestrations to correspond to the limited-sized pit orchestra was nothing short of amazing. He took delight in developing students in the art of cabaret, and he was especially enthusiastic about preparing and playing for the annual Senior Showcase presented each spring in New York City. As significant as were his musical gifts, his greatest impact was in his selfless care for each student, welcoming and valuing each person's individuality and humanity. His students remembered him not only as a mentor but as a lifelong friend.

This scholarship seeks to support and encourage students in musical theater to achieve their greatest success as compassionate artists, skilled musicians, and brave performers.

"My paternal aunt, Sister Felicia (Elizabeth) Corrigan, Sister of Loretto, was born in October 1906, the daughter and grand-daughter of Effie Anna Sikes and Bettie McMullin Sikes Matthews of Sikeston, Missouri. Each of these women, as well as my sister, Sheila Corrigan Defazio, and I, Ann Margaret Corrigan, were educated by the Lorettines in Cape Girardeau, Florissant or Webster Groves, Missouri over a period of approximately one hundred years. Sister Felicia taught Sociology at Webster College for about 25 years and had a profound influence on raising the consciousness of social justice among the sisters she taught. Her likeness appears on the bronze plaque, "Women in Education" honoring the Sisters of Loretto. The plaque is currently located on the second floor of the Emerson Library as confirmation of the high esteem in which she was and is held by her own community.

I have chosen to create Sr. Felicia's Scholarship in music at the Webster Groves campus because of my own deep appreciation for the many decades of joy both the Theatre Conservatory and the Music Department have brought to my life. I trust the students who benefit from Sr. Felicia's Scholarship to now and again 'Make a joyful noise unto the Lord' in her memory. Blessings in your studies and your lives." - Ann Margaret Corrigan

Thomas Carter Flueckiger was born on April 24, 1992. From infancy on Thomas was always fully engaged with life. As a toddler he was curious as to how everything worked. After playing with a toy once the way it was intended, Thomas would then try to figure out what else he could do with it. Thomas was very verbal as a child with an adult-like vocabulary. He loved talking with adults and was never at a loss for questions.

In fourth grade, Thomas discovered the theatre and found his calling in life. In middle school he started learning the ropes for light and sound work. By eighth grade, Carter (as he was known to family and friends) was branching out into community theatre and also crewing for the Fort Wayne Ballet Company, and by his Freshman year of high school Thomas knew he wanted a career in theatre and concert lighting. Thomas even designed and taught a tech class for middle school students. During his senior year of high school, Thomas was personally asked by the director to be the stage manager for the Civic Theatre's production of "Working." The Theatre's director said that was the first time he had ever handed over the keys of the building to a 17-year-old.

In addition to high school productions, he frequently worked with the Fort Wayne Civic Theatre and also the Ballet. Even with all his free time being spent in the theatres he loved so much, Carter maintained a GPA above 4.0 all through high school and graduated 4th in his class. He received one of the highest honors bestowed by Canterbury High School, the Canterbury Cup, upon graduation.

When looking at college theatre programs, Thomas knew exactly what he wanted. He chose Webster because of the people he met in the program and the opportunity for immediate hands-on experience.

Life at Webster in the Conservatory program was everything Thomas hoped for. He made friendships which were destined to last for life. He loved his peers, the faculty, and the experiences in theatre. He knew he was receiving the foundation which would allow him to achieve his highest goals.

On March 28, 2011, Thomas' life was cut short by cancer. His sister, parents, family, many friends, and the theatre community have lost a wonderful, caring, vibrant young man. To honor his memory and further the study of lighting design, we have established this scholarship so that others can continue his dreams.

Academic	3.0 GPA, Music Education, Instrumental emphasis,Undergraduate or

	Graduate,Junior, Senior, or Graduate student
Demographic	U.S. Citizen
Other	--

We are establishing this scholarship fund to honor the 30+ year teaching career of Walter Bowers. This scholarship will benefit outstanding instrumental music education students at Webster who intend to pursue a career as public school instrumental music educators.

Walter Bowers taught instrumental music in elementary schools in northern Indiana and was bandmaster at Mishawaka High School (near South Bend) for many years. Mr. "B" conducted the concert bands, "big bands," and other small instrumental ensembles. The musical experiences that members of the band had were an integral part of their early education and served them well in collegiate experiences either in music or in various other fields of study. With these experiences in mind, our desire is to provide an opportunity for Webster instrumentalists to thrive and excel with a little help from their friends - Mr. "B" and us!

The main purpose of this scholarship is two-fold. First and foremost, to promote the education of the American art form we call Jazz. I feel that we need more young musicians to pursue this music in order to keep it alive. I will spend the rest of my life creating projects to make the music thrive again and dare I say, popular again, but first we must sustain its existence.

Secondly, the purpose of this scholarship is to pay homage to a man who spent much of his life teaching this art form both in the classroom and in the clubs to countless youngsters. Willie sacrificed his own career to come home from New York after his father passed to take care of his mother. The side effect of this change in his life turned out to become one of, if not the most enriching rewards to the jazz scene in St. Louis ... to its fans, universities and its young players. Willie always surrounded himself with young jazz musicians, many of which that have gone on to have big careers like the one Willie gave up. We need to keep his memory alive forever in St. Louis.

As a young, Webster University student, I had the honor of watching Willie perform in clubs around town, and as a professional singer I had the honor of sharing the stage with him in his later years and to call him my friend; and now it is my greatest honor to organize this scholarship in his name.

I believe that Willie Akins was the best thing to ever happen to jazz in St. Louis. - Joe Mancuso, 2017

School of Communications

"Undeniably, the media plays a very influential role in our modern world. Being a part of the advertising and marketing field, I believe it is my responsibility to become an agent of change. A single voice delivered through the media can have a huge impact on thousands of people very rapidly. My goal is to improve the lack of diversity and representation that is needed, as well as inspiring others to do the same. I am certain that my Webster degree will be one of the key enablers to succeed in this journey."

Our son Andrew was a 2013 graduate of Webster University in the School of Communications. His specific major was Animation, for which he possessed both an exceptional talent and enthusiastic passion. He loved his time there and excelled under the outstanding direction of the faculty and staff. Upon graduation, he was fortunate to secure an occupation as a synthetic environment designer where he was able to apply his skills learned at Webster. Aside from his interest in animation and his technical abilities, Andrew was best known for his kind, generous and helpful nature toward all who knew him. His sense of humor and wry smile were infectious. Andrew left us all too soon at the age of 27. Though we will no longer continue to benefit from his gifts, talents and charm, he would be so pleased to know that this scholarship will forever offer future students an opportunity to achieve their dreams, just as he did.

Our Mother was a 1947 graduate of what was then Webster College, an all-women's school administered and taught by the Sisters of Loretto. In addition to her husband of 60 years, as well as her children, grandchildren and great grandchildren, Mom had a lifelong love affair with the school. It was where she made and enjoyed very close and enduring friendships; so much so, growing up, we thought many of her classmates were our aunts and we addressed them as such. It was not unusual for her class to hold annual reunions and Mom remained an active member of the alumni association for more than 65 years. She was very proud to be a member of the Golden Circle Club and was always interested and excited to watch as her alma mater grew and prospered into a global university.

In addition to her enduring friendships, Mom was always most grateful for the education she received at Webster and for the reinforcement of the moral and ethical values it instilled. These were values she passed on to all of us, her children, and to those students she educated during her long career as a teacher. She was very pleased that two of her grandsons were Webster University graduates, both from the School of Communications. At the age of 88, she was present at graduation to watch as one of them received his diploma.

For the encouragement and support of future generations of students pursuing academic achievement and principled guidance, this scholarship is established as a lasting tribute to her memory. - The Schreiber Family

The Beatrice and David Kornblum Institute for Teaching Excellence under the aegis of Webster University provides a distinctive forum to carry out the mandates for excellence in education that were embraced by Beatrice Kornblum in her career as a teacher and will ensure her legacy to education of the future through her founding contribution. The Institute supports innovative education, program development, community service and improved teaching and learning with emphasis on those from a disadvantaged public school in an urban setting. The program supports long-term professional development and collaborative work among teachers and educational leaders working together in teams to improve teaching and learning in schools. These teams work with Webster University faculty in collaborative action research projects and become mentors for future Kornblum Scholars. The long-term goal is to provide a lasting network of support for teachers and educational leaders who engage in action research and reflective practice aimed at improving teaching and learning for children who are considered at risk.

Throughout my 35-year tenure at Webster University as a professor of education and then Dean of the School of Education, I supported the values of diversity and inclusion which are cornerstones of Webster University's mission and vision. I did this by encouraging and collaborating with fellow faculty to develop programs, courses, and field experiences that cultivate in our candidates a respect for diversity through responsive teaching and learning that values differences.

I worked with colleagues within the School of Education and across the university to recruit a population of faculty, staff, and students from diverse backgrounds, so that all of us might benefit from daily opportunities to listen and learn from a rich diversity of perspectives. By endowing a scholarship intended to increase the diversity of students in the School of Education. My husband and I hope to leave a small legacy of perpetual support for educators who can contribute to goals of justice and equity for all learners. -Brenda Fyfe

I dedicate this scholarship to the women in my life who inspired in me a love and respect for the value of education. My maternal grandmother, my mother and my aunt dedicated their lives to ensuring their loved ones received the very best education available and were able to access all of the opportunities that would allow them to reach their dreams and potential.

The mantra of these women regarding education was, "Educational success depends on you and your ability to find the resources to help you achieve it." I can hear their voices in my young ears telling me to give school my very best effort, but to also find the help available to overcome any roadblocks or difficulties I had along the way. I was fortunate to have the financial resources of my family to pay for my own and my children's educations. However, being fully aware that financial difficulties are one of the major roadblocks to accessing quality education, I would like to provide this scholarship to less fortunate students who want to dedicate their lives to the education of others.

The donor would like to establish an endowment to honor his wife, Dr. Bertha Winingham Lue-Hing who is a 1950 graduate of Stowe Teacher's College, a 1968 graduate of Webster University, and the fourth African-American female to earn a Ph.D. degree in Education from Washington University in St. Louis in 1982. At her Wash. U. graduation, Bertha was the only Black person on the podium in her class. While this was 40 years ago, we hope that today this endowment will, even in some small way, help to improve diversity. Dr. Bertha Winingham Lue-Hing went on to retire as the Superintendent of School District #88, Bellwood, Illinois. As an African-American woman, Bertha was a trailblazer, overcoming multiple obstacles placed before her. This scholarship is to stand as her lasting legacy to the education she worked so hard to receive, as a beacon of inspiration to her children and grandchildren, several of whom have become professional educators, MBAs, CPAs, and attorneys, and as a source of support for deserving students at Webster University.

In the grand scheme, our time at Webster University will be considered brief. However, the impact it has had on us can only be considered eternal. We not only first met each other at Webster, but gained countless lifelong friends and mentors along the way. Our time in the classrooms of the School of Business created a foundation for our growing careers, but it was our time outside the classroom that embedded the leadership and organizational skills that have proven invaluable. We believe Webster University has always been a place where anybody can be somebody. We hope this scholarship can be a small piece of that going forward. - Loren and Wakeel Rahman, 2020

Freshman Scholarships

Academic Scholarships
Accepted applicants for admission are automatically reviewed for Webster Academic Scholarship consideration and are notified within 10-14 days after receiving their admission decision.

Alumni Legacy Scholarship
Webster University is pleased to announce a $1,000 award per academic year being offered to the dependent sons and/or daughters of Webster University Alumni worldwide. This award applies to new, first-time freshmen or transfers who will be enrolled as full-time, degree-seeking students at the home campus in St. Louis, Missouri.

The Legacy Scholarship is automatically renewable for a maximum of four years and can be stacked with all other Webster-funded awards, with the exception of the full-tuition Presidential award and the full-tuition Phi Theta Kappa Distinguished Achievement award. Although a separate application is not required, applicants must provide the name of the qualifying parent in the space provided on the Application for Admission or on the Webster Common Application Supplement.

A+ Scholarship
Awarded to first-time freshmen who have completed the requirements for the A+ Scholarship Program at the time of graduation from an A+ designated high school in the State of Missouri. This is a Webster University award. The A+ Scholarship offered by the State of Missouri can only be used at Missouri public community colleges.

Leadership Scholarship
Webster University offers this for those students who have demonstrated significant leadership activity during high school and plan to continue this activity while at Webster. In addition to significant leadership experience, students most likely to be awarded will have a cumulative GPA of 3.3 and either an ACT Composite Score of 24 or an SAT combined Critical Reading and Math Score of 1160-1190. The amount is $2,000 per academic year and is renewable up to a total of eight consecutive semesters. Up to 12 individuals will be awarded.

Chancellor's Scholarship
Competitive and available to incoming freshmen who have met the following criteria: a 3.75 cumulative GPA (on a 4.0 scale), a minimum 27 ACT composite or 1260 SAT or higher. Finalists must be able to attend the scheduled competition event held at Webster Groves campus.

- Value: Full tuition — Renewable per academic year (up to eight consecutive semesters or until completion of 120 credit hours)
- Full-time enrollment required (13 credit hours or more) (Fall and Spring semesters only)
- Maintain a 3.5 GPA (on a 4.0 scale)

Proud to Serve
The Proud to Serve Scholarship is open to incoming freshmen and undergraduate transfer students who are dependents of active-duty military or honorably discharged veterans. Recipients of this award must maintain full-time status at the Webster Groves campus.

- Value: $1,000 per academic year (renewable)

Webster University Loretto Community
The Webster University Loretto Community Scholarship has been established to recognize the history, mission, and service heritage of the Sisters of Loretto, and to honor their rich tradition of making higher education available to young women.

This will be available to graduating seniors who plan to attend Webster from any of the three Loretto-sponsored high schools: Nerinx Hall High School, St. Louis, Missouri; Loretto Academy, El Paso, Texas; and St. Mary's Academy, Denver, Colorado. A total of three per year will be offered, and multiple students from a single school can be awarded.

- Value: $5,000 per academic year (renewable for up to four years) and is non-stackable
- 3.0 cumulative GPA or higher and ACT of 21 or higher, or SAT combined Reading and Math of 1060

 Deceased*

Webster University 63119 Community Scholarship
The Webster University 63119 Community Scholarship has been established to recognize the history of community support and celebrate the partnership with Webster University from those who live in the 63119 zip code community. This scholarship will be available to graduating seniors who plan to attend Webster from the 63119 zip code area. A total of six per year will be offered.

- Value: $2,500 per academic year (renewable for up to four years)
- 3.0 cumulative GPA or higher

Dr. Donald M. Suggs Scholarship
The Dr. Donald M. Suggs Scholarship has been established to honor Dr. Donald M. Suggs, an oral surgeon, newspaper publisher, patron of the arts and distinguished community leader. This competitive scholarship, available for incoming freshman, is designed to enhance the recruitment and retention of academically talented undergraduate students from ethnic groups typically under-represented in higher education.

This cannot be combined with other University awards. However, students may also be eligible to receive the Bright Flight Scholarship or other federal/state need-based aid. This award is subject to change if all federal, state, institutional and private funding received by the student exceeds the estimated cost of attendance as defined by Webster University's Financial Aid Office. Finalists must be able to attend the scheduled competition event held at the Webster Groves campus.

- Value: Full Tuition — Renewable per academic year (up to eight consecutive semesters or until completion of 120 credit hours)
- Full-time enrollment required (13 credit hours or more) (Fall and Spring semesters only)
- Must represent an ethnic group that is under-represented in higher education from the St. Louis metro area
- Qualifications (must meet the following):
    - 3.5 cumulative GPA (on a 4.0 scale)
